

I'm writing to urge you not to drop the cross-ownership ban currently in place for media companies, which prevents them from owning a tv station and newspaper in the same geographic area. Now, more than ever, Americans need diverse sources for information. Indeed, this is essential to sustaining a democracy! Dropping the ban would severely limit the diversity in news reporting.

Please don't sell out the American people for the benefit of a few large media corporations.

Sincerely,
Susan Ludwig
